COURT FAILS TO ACT ON STATE'S APPORTIONMENT

Supreme Court Adjourned: Brother's Case Also Undecided

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—(UP)—Disbarment of a former Congressman from the practice of law in Illinois the enjoining of the Washington county circuit court from taking jurisdiction in a factional fight in the Modern Woodmen of America and affirming of the conviction of a coal mine union executive charged with embezzling union funds featured a list of more than fifty decisions which were handed down by the state Supreme Court today as it adjourned its December term. It will reconvene February 2.

Included among the court's opinion was a formal written decision in explanation of its oral ruling last term in holding a state prevailing rate of wage law unconstitutional. The court's opinion was prepared by Justice Frederic DeYoung, Chicago, and there was no dissent. It reviews the objections which were urged against the act and adds:

"The foregoing without considering other objections to the act sufficiently shows that it is not only uncertain and indefinite in its provisions, but that it is also incomplete and delegates legislative power by allowing administrative officers to supply many of its substantial features."

"Accepted rules of construction applied to certain sections will not allow to disclose the legislative intent and courts are powerless to supply the omissions of the act. No person, by reading the act, will know with a reasonable degree of certainty what rights it confers, and what duties or obligations it imposes. The act is void."

The court did not pass on the right or authority of the legislature to pass a rate of wage law. While the objectors insisted that such legislation is beyond the power of the General Assembly, the opinion prepared by Judge DeYoung discusses only the act under consideration.

"In our view," says the opinion, "it will be necessary to consider only the contentions that the act is void because it is incomplete and uncertain and that it delegates arbitrary power in violation of the fundamental law."

No action was taken by the court on appeals involving the constitutionality of the recently enacted congressional reapportionment law, held invalid by the Boone county Circuit Court, and the conviction of Leo Brothers of a charge of murdering Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune crime reporter.

Though the court failed to act on the reapportionment law it is expected to hand down a decision next week so that candidates for Congress may definitely know whether they will have to seek election under the old law or the new law. The new law changes boundary lines of the old districts and until it is decided which districts are legal candidates must not know where they must campaign.

the gallery, which was crowded during the day, but his request was refused.

The Senate gave its approval to a compromise plan offered by Senators Richard Barr, Jolet, and Arthur Huebsch, Chicago, Republicans, providing for the changing of the assessment machinery in Cook county. The plan was offered in the form of an amendment to a pending bill and was adopted 29 to 16 and the bill amended then advanced to third reading.

The Senate also gave passage to a bill permitting a five per cent discount on the second installment of taxes if paid when the first installment is due.

In the House of Representatives after a long debate a motion by Representative D. L. Giffin, Republican, Springfield, to have a bill, providing that in counties where assessors decline to make reassessments the work may be done under supervision of the State Tax Commission, advanced to a second reading was defeated.

Two bills by Representative John Peppers, Republican, Aurora, providing for a decrease in the road tax in road districts, counties and townships were passed by the House. The bills now go to the Senate for final action.

The House also passed a bill by Representative Homer Tice, Republican, Greenville, authorizing issuance of interest-bearing warrants to Chicago school teachers.

Mukden, Manchuria, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Much government business in Manchuria that formerly went to United States and European establishments, may be thrown to Japan instead as a result of the reorganization now going on in the territory.

Japanese economic brigades closely followed up the advances of General Honjo's armies and attempted, largely with success, to clinch Japanese control of major interests in South Manchuria.

The most important members of this "economic corps" are the Japanese advisers who sit in with provincial and local governments in Fengtien and Kirin provinces. The control was also enlarged by taking over railways which the Chinese operated but in which Japanese had money interest.

The Japanese are forming an electric light and power monopoly in South Manchuria, they have assumed control of big Chinese banks, rich mining properties and important manufacturing and commercial concerns which formerly were allied to Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's official banks. They have placed advisers in every important government bureau.

This is the feature of the reorganization which most affects American commercial interests.

One great staple of American commerce in Manchuria—kerosene—is not likely to suffer, however, although the competition with Soviet Russia is considerable, especially in North Manchuria.

Shanghai, Dec. 17.—(UP)—Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, resigned head of the China National government, left Nanking by airplane today while Canton leaders were nearing the city for a conference with him. Advice reaching here said Chiang's departure was accompanied by threats of new student demonstrations which officials claimed would develop a state of anarchy unless checked. Gen and Mrs. Chiang Kai-Shek went to their native place in Chekiang province.

The Cantonese, escorted by an armored train from Shanghai, received an impressive welcome when they arrived at Nanking.

During the reception of the delegation a mob of students raided the Central Kuomintang (National Party) headquarters, committed various acts of vandalism, and seized several minor officials. A detachment of troops was rushed to the building to disperse the mob.

It was undetermined if Chiang would return to the Capital to participate in the Canton-Nanking conferences. Meanwhile precautions were taken to prevent a state of anarchy after Chinese students decided to renew their demonstrations against Chiang and the National regime.

Fear Anarchy
Gen. Chen Ming-Shu, new head of the legislative Yuan, issued a statement denouncing mob violence and expressing the fear that a state of anarchy would prevail unless demonstrators were checked.

Elaborate precautions were taken to protect the representatives of the Canton government. The delegates' special train from Shanghai was heavily guarded and preceded by an armored train.

As the heavily protected train, on which special precautions were taken to prevent overt acts along the way, left for Nanking it was learned that the government had accepted the resignation of Chang Hsueh-Liang, Marshal of Manchuria.

Gen. Chang was appointed commissioner in Peiping to suppress bandits and was ordered to defend the frontier against invasion of Chinese soil within the Great Wall. He has been in Peiping since the start of the Japanese crisis in Manchuria, maintaining a policy of non-aggression.

Cantonese expressed themselves as hopeful that a reorganization of the Nanking government would materialize at the conference, but noted that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek retains much of his power and influence despite his resignation. They claimed "key men" had been appointed to strategic positions and that every provincial governor now was a military man.

A TOAST TO SANTA CLAUS
HENEER I find a man who don't believe in Santa Claus, And spite of all remonstrance won't yield up to logic's laws, And see in things that lie about

The proof by no means dim, I straightaway cut that fellow out, And don't believe in him.

We find him in the maiden's eyes Beneath the mistletoe, A-sparking as the star-lit skies All golden in her glow, We find him in the pressure of The hand of sympathy, And where there's any thought of love He's mighty sure to be.

The good old Saint is everywhere Along life's busy way, We find him in the very air We breathe day after day, Where courtesy and kindness And love are joined together, To give to sorrow and distress A touch of sunny weather.

So here's to good old Kindlyheart, The best bet of them all, Who never fails to do his part In life's high festival, The worthy bearer of the crown With which we top the Saint, A bumper to his health, and down With them that say he ain't!

All In Readiness For Installation O. E. S. Friday Evening

The public installation of officers of Dorothy Chapter, O. E. S. which is to take place Friday night December 18th, at the Masonic Temple, will be another of the beautiful and spectacular events which this active organization has promoted. For several months the officers have been visiting Chapters in the surrounding cities and all of them have been invited to attend this Dixon installation which is probably the most colorful one held in the northern part of Illinois. Guests will attend from Freeport, Rockford, Sterling, Polo, Amboy, Ashton, Mendota, Franklin Grove, Compton, Milledgeville and many other cities and probably several of the Grand Officers will attend for they have taken a great deal of interest in the affairs of Dorothy Chapter.

The ceremony of installation will begin promptly at 8 P. M., when the installing officers, Carrie Coe, Pearl Rickard and Florence Franks will be escorted to their places by an escort of three past Worthy Patrons. The officers to be installed are Frances A. Schrock, Worthy Matron; Sterling D. Schrock, Worthy Patron; Lucille Stauffer, Associate Matron; Leila Buch, Conductress; Mildred Beier, Associate Conductress; Marie Hoberg, Secretary; J. Howard Ream, Treasurer; Harriet Beam, Chaplain; Mamie Segner, Marshall; Alice Elsie, Warder; James Knox, Sentinel and Lila Hart as Organist. Lucille Trautman, Florence Bastian, Marcella Dick, Helen Edwards and Olive Read will fill the respective points.

The escort of the Worthy Matron will consist of fourteen ladies and there will be a squad of Knights Templar in full uniform who will escort the Worthy Patron to his chair. The ladies in their beautiful evening gowns and the Knights Templar in uniform in the beautifully appointed Chapter room to gether with the beautiful and impressive ceremony, make this occasion one which is looked forward to by all who have ever attended one. Following the ceremony, the officers will lead the way from the Chapter Room and together with their escorts, march down the wide stairway to the ball room where they form a brief grand march, following which there will be a complimentary dancing party for all of the guests and their friends. A new and very popular orchestra will furnish the music and refreshments will be served during the evening. All members and friends of the Order of Eastern Star are cordially invited to attend both the installation and ball.

Dinner Dance A Delightful Affair

The last and crowning social event of the past year to be arranged by Mrs. Nelle Gearhart was the dinner and dance given to the officers of Dorothy Chapter O. E. S., their husbands or escorts, at the Hotel Dixon last evening. This was a fitting climax to this very active year of work. The unusual talent of both Mr. and Mrs. Gearhart for arranging each detail, including the novel table decorations and the usual surprise was again in evidence. The guests were assembled in the parlors and marched to the dining room where they found that each one was exactly opposite their place card. The favors were most unique and clever. Little fat Santa Claus, made from rosy apples, cotton and marshmallows opposite their place card. After a delightful dinner and the singing of some songs about the hostess, Santa Claus appeared, arrayed in proper costume and after cordial greetings, he presented the gifts which had been arranged around a large and well decorated Christmas tree in the center of the room. Each of the officers received a beautiful gift from the Worthy Matron which was to show her appreciation of their assistance during her term of office. This, of course, was the surprise, and the delighted exclamations of thanks were sufficient reward for this wonderful hostess.

The floor was cleared and a most enjoyable dancing party followed with such excellent music that the dancers never ceased their encores. At the conclusion of the dancing, the ladies, who have spent so many happy hours together, could retain their feelings no longer and they swarmed about the hostess and each of the guests expressed the same feeling, that this was the best of all the many affairs this group have attended.

V. F. W. Banquet a Success Tuesday Eve

The Horace F. Ort Post No. 549 V. F. W. and Auxiliary held their annual rabbit banquet Tuesday evening at the home of the Auxiliary president, Mrs. Mary Benodet, 1613 W. First street.

After partaking of a bountiful supply of stewed rabbit and dishes of various delicious salads, those in attendance who numbered nearly one hundred prepared for an evening of enjoyment.

The speaker of the evening was Eustace C. Wilson who praised the ladies of the Auxiliary and several committees for the splendid cooperation in making the banquet a wonderful success. He expressed the hope that this co-operation and interest continue until the V. F. W. Post and Auxiliary would become the finest in northern Illinois. This was greeted with cheers.

The balance of the evening was enjoyed in music and dancing. Barker Barton, local player of the guitar and harmonica is a performer of much talent and he kept the crowd in a happy mood with many "old musical selections, some singing to the accompaniment and some good dance music.

All departed for home at a late hour filled with many happy memories of yore.

Mrs. Drach then gave an intelligent talk on the Lord's Prayer, basing her thoughts on what she heard when "listening in." The Lord's Prayer in unison followed. Reports were given. There was a re-election of officers with the exception of the four presidents who serve three months each. From South Chicago Neighborhood House Miss Anna Pratt read an interesting letter acknowledging with thanks the receipt of a box from the local Missionary Society.

EGYPTIAN TOOTHACHES.

Dr. Roy L. Moodie, of the dental college of the University of Southern California, has spent the past two years studying the teeth of Egyptian mummies; and he rises now to remark that the ancient Egyptians knew nothing whatever about dental hygiene and that most of them were toothless at 40—after, presumably, having suffered from enough toothaches to make the bravest man tremble.

All of this may have been the Egyptians' hard luck and not ours; but there is something peculiarly interesting in it, for it suggests a new way of looking at history. And if you follow it through you may lose a little of that universal human habit of looking back regretfully at the good old days of long ago.

Briefly, it indicates that the various "golden ages" of the past must have had a great many rough places in them. Our own age may be unexciting, but we can at least relieve the ills of the flesh a lot more rapidly and efficiently than our forefathers could.

It might have been nice to live in old Egypt—or in Periclean Greece, or Augustan Rome, or in any other of those spacious days of bygone centuries. But would you have liked living in a time and place where there was no remedy for a toothache short of knocking the aching tooth out with a cold chisel?

This, very likely, is an excessively prosaic way of looking at things; yet when you multiply a success of minor aches and pains far enough you get a sum total of discomfort great enough to put your whole life off key. To have no way of fixing ailing teeth, to lack even the most rudimentary form of eye glasses, to be obliged to leave such troublesome things as infected sinuses totally unattended, to have to put up with bad tonsils and overgrown adenoids no matter how bad they got—is the prospect pleasant?

We probably lack some things that the ancients had, these days. Yet we do live in almost infinitely greater physical comfort, and the fact is worth remembering. It makes up for a lot of things we may be missing.

TOASTING THE UNEMPLOYED.

A newspaper rotogravure section the other day printed a dainty little picture of four people in evening dress seated at a well-appointed table pouring something (harmless, no doubt) out of bottles into glasses; and it was explained that the picture was taken at a society frolic in New York for the benefit of the unemployed, and that the society folk in the picture were "toasting the unemployed."

A society frolic—whatever that may be—for the benefit of the jobless doubtless comes under the heading of meritorious endeavors; yet there is something infinitely exasperating about this picture and its caption, just as there is about most pictures of that kind.

A jobless man might well wonder if he and his brothers wouldn't benefit more had the money been given direct. And the sight of four well-dressed and smiling people toasting him in his misery—well, it is hardly the sort of thing to make him contented with his lot.

HITLER ON GERMANY'S BONDS.

Adolf Hitler, head of the German Fascists, tells an American correspondent in Berlin that American bondholders need not fear for their money if the Fascists come to power in Germany, unless the world accepts the French thesis that political debts must take priority over commercial debts.

This sounds well, but it is rather cold comfort. For that thesis so far has been accepted unflinchingly, and French influence will probably see to it that it is accepted again.

What disturbs Europe and America is the thought that if Hitler's group comes to power there will be an open clash over reparations that might even lead to war—in which case neither political nor commercial debts would be worth the paper they are written on.

JAIL FOR GANDHI?

Gandhi's prediction that he will be occupying a cell in some British jail shortly after he gets back in India is a disquieting reminder that the Indian situation is very apt to go from bad to worse in the near future.

Clearly, the round table conference at London has failed. Gandhi, most powerful of India's leaders, goes home to renew the struggle and realizes that the government of India probably will have no recourse but to lock him up.

What may happen after that is impossible to foretell. Almost inevitably Gandhi's imprisonment would mean the beginning of a new turbulent and painful chapter in the history of India's fight for freedom.

If our governments were serving us as beneficially and as honestly as we are being served by the capitalists, we would think the millennium had arrived.—Albert Shaw, Editor and Publicist.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The alreale was a master true. He made the ugly bulldog do a lot of clever tricks just by the cracking of a whip. To Clowny he said, "Bring a rope and I will make him jump. I hope. Two of you Tinymites swing the rope and then just watch him skip."

Two Tinymites perched upon two stands and held the long rope in their hands. And then they started swinging it around and around and around. The bulldog jumped in perfect form, but shortly said, "I am getting warm. I have had enough of this jumping." Then he hopped off to the ground.

The alreale trainer cried, "Get back upon that stand. You'll get a whack if you dare disobey me. Hurry up, now. Do it right away!" Poor bulldog! Though he looked real bold, he did just as he was recently told. The trainer made him skip a bit, then said, "That is all for today."

The Tinymites then heard barks galore, and Scouty said, "What is in store?" "Some more clowns," answered Coppy.

"They are coming down this way. And look! They are off on quite a lark, and that is what makes the dogs all bark. Let's join right in the fine applause." Then the whole bunch cried, "Hurray!"

A dunce cap stood on one dog's head. "He looks like Clowny," Carpy said. Then Clowny answered, "Is that so? The other looks more like you." Wee Scouty looked at them and sighed. "Be quiet, please," he shortly cried. "Just keep your keen eyes on both those clowns and see what they will do."

One clown dog then performed a treat. He twirled a ball on his hind feet. "That is clever," shouted Scouty. "It is about the best trick yet." Then, suddenly, the other hound picked up a pail and whirled it around. Some water splashed the first dog until he was soaking wet.

(The monkeys do a trapeze act in the next story.)

SOVIET CHURCH BREAK

On December 17, 1917, it was announced in Petrograd that all churches, money, gold, silver and precious stones of the Russian church had been confiscated by the Soviet government.

Religious instruction was explicitly banned from all public schools, and church schools were ordered closed immediately.

Employees at the Petrograd city hall went out on a strike when the new Bolshevik mayor, a former day laborer, appeared.

On the Italian front, an Austro-German attack at San Marino was beaten off after severe fighting, and an attack by British troops at Mont Fontana Secca also failed.

Stops Exhibition Of Gangster's Car

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 16—(AP)—Indiana isn't going to pay money to see a gangster's armored car, if Prosecuting Attorney Samuel Schwartz can hold it.

On orders of Schwartz a police captain yesterday closed a showroom wherein Clark Felgar was exhibiting such a car at ten cents a peek.

"See $50,000 killer car," he advertised. "Inspect personal machine of emperor of Chicago racketland. Veteran of 100 rides."

Felgar said he purchased the car from a lieutenant of Al Capone, and produced documents purporting to show that the deposed Chicago gang leader had paid $22,000 for it. The machine is equipped with bullet-proof glass, sheathed in armor plate and has a secret compartment for pistols under the dashboard.

The prosecutor said the car would be confiscated.

ASHTON NEWS

Ashton—A single point conceded to Paw Paw defeated Ashton's basketball team at the Green River Valley Tournament, Saturday. In the final game, played between Ashton and Paw Paw, the Ashton boys, while leading much of the time, gamely met defeat. With breathless interest many loyal fans of Ashton and school mates accepted the inevitable. Ashton students feel very proud of their team for running up the high score which they did and treasure the consolation cup which lacked but one point of being the Championship Cup.

O. W. Griffith was a Rochelle visitor Tuesday.

Walter Cain will be host to the 4-H club at his home Thursday evening. All boys of the community are invited to attend the meeting. Professor Keith Wehner, instructor in Agriculture at the Rochelle high school will attend and have an interesting talk for the boys.

Rev. and Mrs. Sanford and daughters were Dixon shoppers Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hardesty were hosts to the Neighborhood card club Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hogan will be hosts the coming Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Dailey was hostess to the Pine Rock Woman's Club at her home Friday. The program was in charge of the American Home committee. At the business session it was voted to purchase a $500 Health Bond of the Ogles County.

The program in charge of Mrs. D. V. Leckron took the trend of a style show. Mrs. John Drummond, dressed in her wedding gown which she wore fifty years ago, December 21, was the first to appear before the guests. Her dress was brown tulle with high neck, and polonaise type skirt. Ribbons, ruching, buttons, lace chenille fringe and tassel also took prominent places in the decorations of the lovely gown. A tiny watch pocket was concealed in the waist at one of the many seams, each of which was strongly reinforced with whale bone.

The skirt was fully interlined with ermine and reached to the floor. A large pocket was concealed in the skirt which had a deep flounce of pleats at the bottom. Although fifty years old, it showed no signs of cutting at the seams and was in excellent state of condition.

Miss Blanch Canfield, in a dress worn by her in 1900, was also typical of other days. The waist was made of black satin, high necked, tight sleeves, made with a yoke, outlined with a rope of gold beads, both back and front. The skirt, made of heavy woolen material, was full gored, and with a slight train, majestically trailing behind our former gracious president.

The wedding suit Mrs. Rita Biggers wore in 1913 was of a distinctly different type. It was red wool brocade, made with the then popular slit skirt, which reached to the ankle. The coat was cut "cutaway" and trimmed with a corresponding shade of velvet on the collar.

The lavishly embroidered dress of the present treasurer of the Ashton O. E. S., when she was initiated into the secrets of that order twenty years ago, was next displayed by Miss Theta Huntley. The dress was made "princess" style, and was a work of art.

A Red Cross nurse, was depicted by Mrs. Eva Beaman. A dress made by Mrs. Edwin Orner while attending high school, was worn by Mrs. Mildred Clover. It was black georgette, and hand painted. Mrs. Jennie Cross wore a regulation maid uniform. Mrs. Emma Wishard was dressed in a typical 1931 gown, while Miss Esther Clover appeared as a pajama girl.

Mrs. Elsie Grant will be hostess to the club on December 28. Washington Grove Sunday school will hold their annual Christmas program Sunday evening, December 20.

Miss Genese Oakes continues to be quite ill at her home. Miss Vera Cain was a guest of her sisters in Rockford over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham of Western Springs spent the week end at the Frank Tilton home.

Illinois Second In Farm Phones

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(UP)—Only one state—Iowa—outranked Illinois in the number of telephones on farms, it was reported in statistics of the 1930 farm census released by the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census, here today.

The report fixed the number of phones reported in Iowa on farms at 180,876 and for Illinois 147,872.

Three states, however, were higher than Illinois in the percentage of telephones on all farms. The percentages for the three states and Illinois were: Iowa 84.2; Kansas 72.8; Nebraska, 72.5; and Illinois 68.8.

The number of telephones on farms in the United States was set at 2,139,194 in the report.

Illinois farms having water piped to them numbered 42,391 and the number of farm houses having electricity were 34,241 the statistics showed. Expenditures paid to power companies by Illinois farmers for both light and power totaled $1,191,792, in 1929.

There were 192,873 automobiles on 170,606 reporting Illinois farms, 40,371 trucks on 38,877 reporting farms; and 69623 tractors on the 66,172 reporting farms, the report said.

The number of tractors on Illinois farms showed that the state is out in the lead in this field, with Kansas ranking second with 66,275 tractors on farms in that state. A total of 920,395 tractors were recorded on farms for the entire country.

CHRISTMAS ON THE AIR!

Networks Plan Week Of Cheer

Europe's Famed Choirs to Sing

By PAUL HARRISON
(NEA Service Writer)

New York — The old world's Christmas messages will be brought to America this year by radio, and the millions of listeners in this country will hear, for the first time, some of the most famous of all choral organizations.

During Christmas week, according to the plans of the broadcasting companies, more time and effort than ever before are to be devoted to music and special programs.

Outstanding, perhaps, will be the presentation of the Sistine Choir, to be heard in America on Christmas Eve. This greatest of all Catholic choirs originally consisted of 32 choral chaplains domiciled at the city of Rome.

For centuries it was this choir's exclusive privilege to sing at all ecclesiastical functions in which the pope participated. They will offer six selections in a Yuletide greeting to the world, and their voices, spanning the Atlantic by short wave will be rebroadcast here on an NBC network.

Two unusual choral offerings are to be put on the air December 23, by the Columbia Broadcasting System. At 10:30 A. M. EST, an hour when no other such music is available, will begin a program of carols from Kings College Chapel at Cambridge University. This will be the first broadcast to this country of any program originating in the ancient cathedral.

Carols From Leipzig

In the evening will come another carol program from abroad, this time from the choir of St. Thomas's Church in Leipzig, Germany, where the immortal Bach once was organist. The Thomanerchor, the choir organization, is more than 800 years old.

Two other international broadcasts will be heard over the Columbia network on the Sunday preceding Christmas. From Nuremberg, capital of the toy-making industry, Oberbürgermeister (Mayor) Luppe, will tell about the manufacture of toys, some of which will even provide the sound effects.

Instead of being designed for America alone, the program will be truly international, with bilingual announcements from Germany.

Earlier the same morning the choir of St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, England, will sing part of a Bach cantata from the old church which stands in the shadow of the hallowed Westminster Abbey.

Full Schedule in U. S.

But for every broadcast from across the sea, there will be at least a dozen special programs originating in the United States. Or-

The Christmas spirit will be spread Christmas Eve by such examples as the annual presentation by CBS of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," with the same actors in the cast—Robert Vivian as "Scrooge" and Donald Hughes as "Tiny Tim," shown here and the singing of "Silent Night, Holy Night," by Madame Schumann-Heink, inset, over a NBC network.

Church of St. Paul, the Apostle, in New York.

Comparatively few dramatic programs will be heard, for Christmas is traditionally a time for music. However, several periods of popular music have been scheduled, with enough "jingle bells" atmosphere included to give the seasonal effect.

On December 22 a CBS network will carry a program of Christmas music written entirely by American composers.

Washington's contribution to the holiday music will be a presentation of the National Capitol Choir of 40 voices. Another outstanding period, on Christmas morning, will consist of Peter Cornelius' "Weinachtslieder," a Christmas song cycle, which will be put on the air for the very first time.

On Christmas Eve in Washington, President and Mrs. Hoover, Vice President Curtis and members of the Cabinet will be heard at the ceremonies attending the lighting of the National Community Christmas Tree.

States Spending Millions to Keep Roads Free of Snow This Winter

By NEA Service—
Washington, D. C.—(NEA Service)—
Winter to some people may be very disagreeable, but to unemployed in the 36 states in the snow belt winter has brought a spark of cheer in the $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 being spent to keep highways clear this year.
Although the cost of road clearing is high, it has been estimated that for every $100 spent for this purpose, $1000 are realized in more efficient transportation and uniform business control brought about by uninterrupted traffic.
All states in the snow belt have special crews stationed along the main traveled highways to keep them clear. These crews operate with weather bureaus in their vicinity. At the first sign of an approaching blizzard they are notified. Immediately they man huge snow plows and prepare to do battle with King Winter.
If the snow can be removed before it packs down, the task of the crews is comparatively easy. But once let the white flakes pile up and drift across roads and the task is herculean.
Hard Task to Tackle
Snow fences in some parts of the country are built along roads to keep them clear of drifting. But in blizzards these sometimes are not effective, and the plows must be hurled against the white barrier for hours at a time before the road is open to traffic.
The heaviest snows in the country are in the Sierra Nevada and Cascade Mountains, where they often fall to a depth of from 20 to 40 feet. There road crews really work for their money. With snow at such depth, tall guide stakes and poles have to be driven along the route of the highway so crews can see where to work.
In addition to plows, dynamite is one of the effective weapons used in Bethoud Pass, Colo., in clearing stray off the road and fall over the side of one of the many cliffs along the course.

Traffic must go through... so huge rotary plows like this are being used to clear the main highways.

Some idea of the commercial value of clear roads in winter is the fact that 3,500,000 buses and trucks carry a large percentage of the short haul traffic over them. Millions of persons use the buses as a means of transportation.
These trucks and buses ply more than 200,000 miles of roads in the snow belt. With these roads kept clear, it is estimated that the economic benefit to the bus companies and the states exceeds $100,000,000.
Watch Their Step
Winter maintenance on the new road up Pike's Peak is difficult. From 10,000 to 14,000 feet above sea level, the road is covered with several feet of snow. Gangs working on this highway must take extreme care that they do not

What Leaders In Congress Say About Taxation

Washington, Dec. 17.—(UP)—Congress should explore every other form of revenue before increasing taxes on the man of small means, in the opinion of House Democratic Floor Leader Henry T. Rainey of Illinois.
The elderly but vigorous leader, who frequently has challenged Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, is ready to contest Mellon's proposals for boosting normal rates and reducing exemptions. Both would hit directly the pocketbook of the average householder.
"This is no time to raise the taxes of the poor man—he pays more than he should now," Rainey said in an interview with the United Press. "Small income taxpayers need all their income at the present time."
It is the wealthy who will bear the burden if Rainey has his way. He would raise rates on big incomes and inheritances. In addition would enact a gift tax to supplement the inheritance tax. A gift tax would prevent the rich from creating trusts or giving away their fortunes in old age to escape taxation.

AIRWAYS

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
The airport at Brownsville, Texas, has been equipped with a two-way radio telephone transmitting receiving station. This is the 30th radio station installed on the American Airways coast to coast system.
Heating plants on all transport planes operating in northern states have been installed.
On the Cleveland-Louisville and Chicago-St. Louis routes a 32 pound steam heating apparatus, operated from a small boiler connected with the exhaust, is being made part of the plane equipment. Tiny radiators are placed in the cabin.
Temporary beacons have been placed on housetops, barns, office buildings and other structures between Texarkana and Dallas.
These will be removed when the Department of Commerce installs permanent lights on the line next year. In the meantime nine emergency lights, visible at a distance of 75 miles under ordinary flying conditions have been placed.
No night flying is scheduled on this route at the present time, but on the late afternoon trip, especially during thick weather, lights have been found helpful to navigation over the 250 mile run.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

BY THE UNITED PRESS

Washington, Dec. 17.—The annual budget of the United States government is a book about the size of a New York City telephone directory. It contains 100 closely printed pages, formidable with tables, figures, estimates and statements of expense. In those tables, however, are contained much gossip.

For instance, that book tells what Mrs. Hoover pays her cook. She pays the chief cook $1800 a year and his three assistants $1320, $1200 and $1080. The Hoover butlers—there are two of them—get $1440 and $1200 respectively. Mr. Hoover pays his valet $1800 a year. Incidentally, the valet, Boris, has been with him since the days of the Polish Relief Administration immediately after the war.

It also reveals that people have a habit of sending things to Mr. Hoover with charges collect. An item of $60 a year is in the budget to pay for collect telegrams and postage due letters. It's under the strange heading of "transportation of things, $60."

It will cost the American People $429,380 to maintain the President and his establishment during the next fiscal year. Add to that Mr. Hoover's salary of $75,000 a year and that of Vice President Curtis of $15,000 annually, and the whole bill for maintaining the Chief Executive and his second in command is $519,380 a year—more than a half a million dollars.

But the cost is going down. Mr. Hoover has quietly accepted economy to his own official budget. For the last fiscal year $472,380 was appropriated to maintain the executive establishment in all its branches. Mr. Hoover saved $38,000 of that and this year he is planning to save $5,000 more.

The $38,000 savings was made largely by the President foregoing the installation of improvements in the ventilating system which would have added considerably to his own comfort. The additional $5,000 saving this year is contemplated in the equipment fund—Mr. Hoover will make the old desks and typewriters last another year. The only item in the President's own budget which is increased is for repairs of the White House. It was $10,809 last year. A thousand dollars is added this year.

It takes 37 people to operate Mr. Hoover's office. There are three secretaries at $10,000 a year apiece; an executive officer at $7000 a year; a chief administrative officer at $5600; two senior administrative officers at $4000; an administrative officer at $3333; and administrative assistant at $3100; a junior administrative assistant at $2817; and so on down to a laborer at $1170. The salary roll amounts to $126,180 a year; there are contingent expenses of $43,500; printing costs $2700 and travel and entertainment, $25,000. The President's personal fund, $25,000.

Over in the mansion where the Hoovers live, and in the grounds, 60 more people are employed permanently and extra help is engaged on occasion costing $14,800 a year. A "Manager" at $3000 and an Assistant Director of Gardens at $2600 are the highest paid. There are five mechanics, a chief cook and three assistants, valet, clerk, painter, two gardeners, a plumber, who gets only $1680 a year, 12 laborers, two butlers, three footmen, seven house cleaners, a doorman, five pantry-men, a kitchen maid, a chambermaid, five laundresses, a maid and chef.

And this does not cover the cost of personal employes whom Mr. and Mrs. Hoover pay from their own funds.

ATHLETE'S HEART

The impression has long prevailed that those indulging in fairly strenuous athletics ultimately develop what is termed athlete's heart.

This was conceived to be a disease condition in which the heart becomes enlarged and suffers in addition certain injuries to its valves.

Recent studies, however, have led to the conclusion that athlete's heart, as a disease, does not exist.

Where the heart is shown to have suffered from heavy athletics, it was found that it had been diseased

Small Contributions Are Proving the Greatest Glory of Record Community Chest Campaign

Thousands, Close Themselves to Poverty, Have Unhesitatingly Shared

By PAUL HARRISON
(NEA Service Writer)

New York.—When agencies in the large cities begin their task of ministering to the welfare and relief needs of 1932, about one hundred million dollars will have been made available to them by Community Chest campaigns.

That record figure, some 14 per cent greater than the largest previous total, represents a donation of about 83 cents for every man, woman and child in the United States. Yet the amount will have come out of the pockets of relatively few donors in only 391 American cities.

Results of the Community Chest campaigns, interpreted through incomplete reports and in the light of last year's giving, pay astonishing tribute to the generosity of small contributors, some of whom are themselves on the verge of financial need.

Probably one fourth of all this nation's huge charity fund, privately contributed, will have come from the men and women who can afford to donate less than $25. The proportion may be even greater, for that class of donors was responsible for nearly half of the increase in 1930 funds over those of 1929.

Both Extremes Liberal

"Naturally, the rich are giving the largest share in actual dollars," declared Bart Andress, staff member of the Association of Community Chests and Councils, the central agency which has worked in cooperation with President Hoover's national relief organization. "In fact, the two most notable increases are coming from the two extremes. The wealthy people have answered the call to give more than ever this year and the wage earners and workers have shared generously."

"The straitened circumstances of middle class people are more than ever evident this year. The small shopkeepers and businessmen, overloaded with bad debts and decreased business, have not been able to give the usual sums to Community Chests. Neither have salaried workers, who are concerned over their own decreased pay checks and a general feeling of insecurity."

Higher Proportion

"But the wage earner, though he may be working only part time, and who has really felt the pinch of depression, has given all that more liberally because of that. The man who formerly worked on the machine next to him may be in actual want. His next door neighbor may be facing eviction. So the worker wants to do something about it. The amount he gives is small, but usually it is in greater proportion to his resources than the gifts of the wealthy."

before undergoing strain.

Dr. Harlow Brooks, discussing this subject at the New York Academy of Medicine, said, "The modern view of the subject seems to indicate that, given a perfectly healthy heart in a healthy body, such an individual may continue heavy exercise during the active physical years without permanent detriment to that heart."

"But if primary disease of the heart has pre-existed, anything beyond temperance in the way of physical effort is attended with serious results in so far as the future is concerned, although usually the ultimate bad result and the failure of the heart do not appear until years after the heavy exercise has been taken."

"When athletes or laborers are carefully chosen after thorough physical examination, and unless they suffer meantime some incidental disease of which rheumatism and the other acute infections are the most frequent, these people may continue athletics of a character suitable to their age, indefinitely."

"It is, however, never advisable for a mature or old man to attempt to reproduce his youthful athletic efforts."

"Most of the cases of failure of the heart in college and other athletics has been the result of ineffective examination and the permission of such crippled individuals to undertake work which, because of a defective heart, they are not competent to sustain."

THE RECORD FIGURE REPRESENTS A DONATION OF 83 CENTS FOR EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IN THE COUNTRY.

In New York, for example, approximately 500,000 wage earners pledged more than they could pay in cash to the emergency relief fund. So they will pay the promised sums in weekly installments taken from their salaries.

Only 174 of the 391 Community Chest drives have been completed and tabulated thus far. And about 100 of the remaining campaigns are to be held after January 1. But the $63,441,998 raised for the 174 Chests—an increase of 14.9 per cent over the same organizations' aggregates last year—seems to be a fairly accurate index of what may be expected.

Not for Primary Relief Community Chest funds, Mr. Andress explained, are not to be used entirely for direct unemployment relief in terms of food, fuel, clothing and shelter. The Chests are agencies which raise, in a single campaign, money which is allotted on a pre-determined basis to all the cooperating welfare organizations of each city. These funds then are used not only for direct relief, but for hospitals, child welfare, nursing homes for the aged and similar institutions.

Andress pointed out that three of the largest cities in the United States—New York, Chicago, and Boston—have not adopted the Community Chest plan. The $18,000,000 raised in New York's drive is all for primary relief, such as food, fuel, clothing and shelter.

Fully 99 per cent of the amounts which Community Chests set out to raise has been contributed. The amounts contributed in cities which do not have Community Chests will greatly boom the national total.

Public Funds Greater But even this will represent less than one third of the country's total bill for charity and welfare.

A Department of Labor survey of 100 typical cities shows that 72 per cent of the entire relief burden up to date has been met by public funds. Only 28 per cent has come from private sources. Assuming that this proportion continues, the 1932 relief total, derived from both local taxation and contribution, will be at least $450,000,000.

Administered with the U. S. Army efficiency, at the present ration allowance of 37 cents per day per man, this sum would feed 3,332,000 needy persons an entire year. Individual Community Chest goals have been reached in 123 cities so far, while the totals in 51 cities have fallen short by narrow margins. Post campaign donations are expected to erase most of these paper deficits.

because of lack of appropriate clothing.

Decatur, Ill.—(UP)—The Decatur school board has voted to shorten the term of the public schools by three weeks, the spring semester to close on May 20 instead of June 10 as usual, because of the necessity for reducing expenses to conform with lessened income.

Lower tax valuations have resulted in decreased budgets for school system operation, for police and fire protection as well as for other city departments.

The police department is facing a deficit of $22,000 while the fire department's deficit is $30,000. Shortage of funds in the street department has halted its activities temporarily.

Springfield, Ill.—(UP)—Illinois soft coal production showed a decided upturn during the last week in November as compared with the preceding week, it was revealed today in the regular weekly coal report of the United States Bureau of Mines.

Production during the week ending November 28 was estimated at 827,000 tons as compared with 775,000 tons for the preceding week.

The output for the country as a whole, however, was lower during the last week due apparently to a more liberal observing of the Thanksgiving holiday in other states.

Pennsylvania led the nation in production for the week with a total of 1,448,000 tons as compared with 1,336,000 tons for the preceding week. Mines in the southern part of West Virginia were second having an output of 1,146,000 tons, a decline.

The total production of soft coal during the week ending December 5, including lignite and coal coked at the mines, is estimated at 7,336,000 nte tons. Compared with the output in the preceding full time week, November 16-21, this shows an increase of 173,000 tons, or 2.4 per cent. Production during the week in 1930 corresponding with that of December 5 amounted to 9,607,000 tons.

Total production of soft coal during the present calendar year to December 5 (approximately 286 working days) amounts to 353,679,000 tons. Figures for corresponding periods in other recent calendar years are given below:

1930—429,620,000 tons.
1929—496,033,000 tons.
1928—463,844,000 tons.
1927—481,215,000 tons.

Springfield, Ill.—(UP)—Air traffic rules of Illinois are contained in a pamphlet issued by the Illinois Aeronautics Commission today to aviation interests throughout the state.

Regulations establishing rules for taking off and landing; sections governing acrobatic flying; seven miscellaneous rules; provisions regarding lights, signals and the provisions regarding lights, signals and the procedure to follow after accidents, and exemption and emergency clauses are contained in the booklet.

Failure to comply with the provisions and requirements of the rules, except under specific exemption granted by the commission may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. Under authority granted the commission it may suspend, modify or revoke the regulations at anytime.

Springfield, Ill.—(UP)—Approximately 100,000 automobile and truck drivers cooperated with the state highway division in its recent survey of traffic conditions in the metropolitan area, officials of the State Department of Public Works and Buildings announced here today.

"As rapidly as possible," the department's announcement read "the study of traffic movements in the Chicago region will be completed, and the information digested and correlated. Additional surveys are yet to be made in both the metropolitan area and downstate to supplement data already secured and to permit the flow of traffic mapped with accuracy."

"The information will be invaluable in mapping out the state's future road program."

Accidents Lead In Death Causes Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—(UP)—Various kinds of accidents, which caused 2,989 deaths in Illinois, during the first six months of 1931 far surpassed communicable diseases as a cause of mortality during that period, according to a statement issued here today by the State Department of Public Health.

Excepting pneumonia and tuberculosis, the fifteen more common communicable diseases were charged an aggregate of 2,628 deaths during the half year. Pneumonia was credited with 3,971 and tuberculosis with 2,504 fatalities.

To automobile accidents were attributed 975 deaths during the half year. This gave a rate of 25 per 100,000 population compared with a rate of 32 for the year of 1930. Though the second six months always yields a higher automobile accident rate than the first it is not anticipated that the improvement will not hold for the entire year.

Next to automobile mishaps, falls, charged with 500 deaths, were the most frequent cause of accidental mortality. To excessively high weather temperatures was attributed 307 deaths while drowning and railroad accidents came next in order with 198 and 150 fatalities respectively. Other two forms of accidents which resulted in more than 100 deaths are asphyxiation by breathing poisonous gases and burns with 107 and 133 respectively.

Plane accidents caused 12 deaths. All accidental deaths gave a mortality rate of 77 per 100,000 population during the first half of 1930.

Only heart disease, nephritis and cancer among all causes of death were credited in 1930 with mortality rates higher than 77 per 100,000 population.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS NEXT BATTLE OF CHAMPIONS MAY BE IN CHICAGO

Legislature Is Expected To Permit Longer Fights In State

Chicago, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The next heavyweight championship fight today appeared headed for Chicago.

The last serious obstruction—Champion Max Schmeling's objection to defending his title at less than 15 rounds, seemed under control, leaving the usual squabbles over terms yet to be undergone, in arranging a match between the titleholder and Mickey Walker, former welterweight and middleweight king early next year, for charity.

George Getz, a member of Gov. Emmerson's Committee on Unemployment Relief, had succeeded in having an amendment bill, providing for 15-round heavyweight championship bouts, introduced into the Illinois legislature and it had been advanced to second reading without reference to a committee.

When Getz, who with the late Tex Rickard, promoted the historic Dempsey-Tunney spectacle in Soldier Field in 1927, first asked that the amendment be proposed, he was told by Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom that it could not be done because the legislature was in special session to consider no other problems except those concerning the state's financial situation. Later, however, the bill was drafted with a clause providing for increasing the state tax on such events.

Getz pointed out that the fight, which would be held in the Chicago Stadium next February or March, probably would attract a "gate" of around $400,000. Of this amount the state would take between 10 and 15 per cent in taxes. When the bill was presented in the House by Representative Frank Ryan of Chicago there appeared to be no serious opposition.

It also was pointed out by Getz that the Stadium Corporation planned a match later in the year involving the winner of the Schmeling-Walker battle, and either Jack Dempsey, should he decide to make a big comeback attempt, or possibly Jack Sharkey. The latter attraction would be arranged to catch the huge temporary increase in population caused by the Republican National Convention, and the Democratic convention if it comes to Chicago.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling manager, has tentatively agreed to the stadium Corporation's offer of $200,000 or a privilege of 40 per cent of the gate, to defend his title. Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Stadium, said that passage of the 15 round amendment was the only thing necessary to bring the fight to Chicago.

Commercial League
CLEARY 680—POOLE 676

Frank Cleary led the Commercial League bowlers last week with a spectacular series of 680, followed closely by Larry Poole with another flashy series of 676. These scores enabled their team The Manhattan Cafe to win all three from The Bootery and as a result are now in first place by one game. Cleary's series of 680 was high for this match Poole taking highest single game with a total of 247 his last game. The Manhattan bowlers were not only satisfied with winning all three games but decided to share in some additional prizes as the time is getting short to hang up big team totals for single games and series. They totaled 1144 on their final game to take high team single game honors away from the Walnut Grove who just the week previous crashed through for new records in team single and team series. The 3041 team total is also a considerable sum for five men to collect in three games. Cleary now holds the highest average in the Commercial League with 196.22 for 30 games.

HIGHWAY CAFE GRAB TWO
Good food always certifies good scores, says Ed Hooker, so his team the Highway Cafe kept up their dizzy pace last week and laid two more victories on the shelf, this time the Walnut Grove Products were the unhappy five to suffer. Ed Worley boosted his average to 195.24 with a snappy total of 638. He also rolled high single game of 247, his second game. Ed Detweiler with a total of 555 for his series last week is now enjoying third berth in the individual average standings, with 179.1. Clinton Emmert is close enough to be watched with 178.17, for fourth place.

DIXON FRUIT COP TWO
The Beler's Loafers looted too much last week and a direct result lost two games out of three to the Dixon Fruit Co. John Lange proved himself a reliable member by mopping up the maples for high single game of 224 his first game and continuing his trade profited by a 3 game total of 592 which stood as the high series of this match. Frank Kness of the Dixon Fruit Co., also rolled a good total with 583 pins. The Dixon Fruit Co. made a team total of 2016 against 2821 for the Beler's Loafers. Captain Forest Suter of the Dixon Fruit Co. holds fifth place in individual averages to date with 175.12 for 33 games.

Clinton Recreation

The time was 4:15 the place Clinton Recreation, Clinton Iowa. The reason, Grudge match. The results were: Victories for Dixon.

That was the situation Sunday afternoon at Clinton, when the local Recreation's crashed their way through the Tough Clinton Five, who have been a so-called jinx for quite a long time. Dixon's totals of 947, 1042, 976, for a team count of 2965 did much to eliminate any such differences between the two teams from now on. John Lange, with the help of some friendly rooters secured 11 strikes out of a possible 12 for a big total of 266 his second game, a split in the second frame being the only hindrance to a perfect game. Ed Worley rolled counts of 218, 209, 227 for high series total of 654. The Dixon team lost 27 pins the first game, but came back strong the second with a count of 1042, this cutting the difference to 5 pins. From then on out to the finish it was every man for himself to win or lose. The final Dixon Five winning by 105 pins.

Do You Remember?

One Year Ago Today—Heavyweight Champion Max Schmeling, reading in Berlin papers that the New York City Boxing Commission had requested him to accept Jack Sharkey as the challenger for his next title defense informed American newspaper correspondents he was ready to fight Sharkey, or whoever is considered the best man when summer comes.

Five Years Ago Today—The season's most sensational pugilistic upset occurred in Madison Square Garden where Tony Canzoneri, boxing less than two years and no better than a 4 to 1 shot, decisively Bushy Graham in a 10-round bout. Graham had been scheduled for a bantamweight championship match with Charley (Phil) Rosenberg on January 7.

Ten Years Ago Today—Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., won the world's three-cushion billiard championship from Augie Ketcher of Chicago by a score of 180 to 171. The score of their final block was 60 to 56 for Layton.

Baseball Gossip

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

United Press Staff Correspondent
Chicago, Dec. 17.—(UP)—A week ago the Chicago Cubs traded Hack Wilson to the St. Louis Cardinals for Burleigh Grimes in a surprising baseball transaction which has produced some conclusions from scattered sectors even more startling than the trade itself.

The main echo to the trade itself from such widely-separated points as New York and Los Angeles is that the Cardinals got all the better of the deal, and that the Cubs got a belligerent pitcher who has designs on Manager Rogers Hornsby's managerial job.

Only 154 games from April down the stretch to September will tell whether Sam Bredon and Branch Rickey outsmarted William Veck and Rogers Hornsby, but just to keep the records straight it should be told just what the facts were behind this deal.

The Cubs had an unruly outfielder who drew a salary of $37,500, broke training rules and robbed a potential pennant contender of the punch it had every reason to expect after a batting average of .356 in 1930.

For the best interests of the Cubs, they had to sacrifice Wilson for whatever they could get for him. In the early stages of the dickering for Wilson the offers weren't high. One club even suggested they would take Wilson for the waiver price of $4500. Another club offered two players who were sent to the minors the next day.

Unexpectedly the Cardinals said they might take Wilson and negotiations finally worked around to the point where it was revealed that St. Louis had a player it would be very glad to sever relations with because he is growing old and is very high priced.

When Hornsby learned the player was Burleigh Grimes, the trade was as good as made as far as the Cubs' manager was concerned. He readily agreed to toss in Bud Teachout, young southpaw, when he learned Bredson regarded Teachout as a good prospect.

Furthermore it is possible the Cubs paid some cash also to get Grimes.

Out in Los Angeles and in other places, the question has been asked: "What do the Cubs want Grimes for?"

The simplest answer is that the Cubs wanted Grimes because they want to win the 1932 pennant, and Hornsby believes Grimes will help them do it. Grimes is made to order for Hornsby's 1930 plans.

In many ways Hornsby isn't subtle, but he is smart like a fox when you least expect it. One reason why Hornsby wanted Grimes was because Burleigh beat the Cubs five times without a defeat last season, and in the past five years he has won 25 games from the Cubs while losing five.

As for the well-circulated but groundless rumor that Hornsby and Grimes are unfriendly and likely to have discordant arguments, it can be best settled by the fact that the veteran pitcher was at his best when Hornsby managed the New York Giants, in the absence of John J. McGraw, who was ill during the latter part of 1927. It was Grimes' pitching during the stretch that kept the Giants in the pennant fight.

When Grimes was with Boston in 1930, before he was traded to the Cardinals, he came to Hornsby and asked him to try and make a deal to bring him to the Cubs.

Hornsby and Grimes aren't lifelong pals, but they have one outstanding characteristic that binds them together: they like to win; they can't tolerate a loser.

The Cubs will pay Grimes' salary price, and Grimes, despite his 33 years, is one of the canniest pitchers in baseball. Between Wilson, whose eyes have been pronounced deficient by a specialist, and Grimes, who knows how to use his head as well as his arm, the former Cubs' outfielder is decidedly the biggest gamble for the 1932 season, at least.

Wilson May Finally Land In Brooklyn

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Brooklyn baseball club needs a right handed outfielder to fit in with three regulars who but left-handed and Hack Wilson may fill the bill. But, Frank B. York, club president and Manager Max Carey, Brooklyn still must find a definite basis for a deal with the St. Louis Cardinals, who obtained Wilson from the Chicago Cubs, before the club can give him a chance to try his "comeback."

Brooklyn turned down a Cub offer to trade Wilson for Floyd "Babe" Herman and is rather shy of trades but President York indicated yesterday that he might be willing to take a chance on a cash gamble on Wilson's ability and good intentions. The Cardinals are understood to have made some preliminary overtures in regard to a deal already.

Now, 1932 is still a couple of weeks

COACH SHARPE'S BOYS TO TACKLE REAL OPPOSITION

The Dixon High Cagers Expect Struggle In Rock Falls

By DON HILLIKER

Dixon's high school basketball team is in for a tough battle this week-end in Rock Falls. The game, in the Rock Falls high school gym, will be played Saturday evening. A veteran team is representing Rock Falls and this means that the Dixonites will be up against much more opposition than in the Amboy game.

Coach Akey of the Rock Falls' crew has four men from last year's district tournament runner-ups. A. Hunsberger, Calligan, Corzett and Sharps played regularly in 1930 and form a very aggressive team this season. Besides this quartet there is Yeager, Stevens, Bonaldi and G. Hunsberger, the latter reported to be on a par with his well-known brother. The opener of the season was played last week when Tampico was defeated 31-19. On Tuesday of this week at Prophetstown the Rock Falls team won 24-23. A. Hunsberger and Calligan got all but seven of the two dozen points.

To match this array Coach Sharpe has what appears to be the strongest team since his work began in Dixon three years ago. This is the last game before the holidays and probably will see all the first string men in action. At forwards there are Henry, Bellows, Bales and Mitchell; guards, Wolf, Brown, Daniels and McReynolds; centers, Strong and Bush. Fresh from last week's 23-6 win over Amboy the team hopes to enjoy the yule season with a clean slate. Coach Lindell's B team will also be striving for its second win in the preliminary.

Last year Dixon took both games played with Rock Falls. The first game was featured by a great spurt on the part of Rock Falls but Dixon finally won 9-8. The second game was a duplicate in action with Dixon staving off another rally to win 13-12. The year before Rock Falls won two games. Saturday will be a good night to settle this two year dispute. Rock Falls and Dixon have been rivals for years and each team meets in football, basketball and track.

A large crowd of local fans, including students and townspeople, expect to view the game in Rock Falls.

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Dec. 17.—(UP)—Each year, as you know, this department gives off a prize, or prizes in case of a tie, to that man in baseball who comes through with the most original and out of the ordinary plan, idea, statement or performance.

In 1931 I was forced to give off 16 prizes, one to the manager of each of the major league clubs. This was a tremendous blow to my resources, but it was the only fair thing to do. For the managers, each and every one of 'em, came through at the start of the season with pre-battle statements that were positively unique. I'll quote you a few and see if you could choose a winner:

"Our team will be in there fighting all the way."—Joe McCarthy.

"The team that beats us will know it has been in a fight."—Gaby Street.

"We will hustle from the start, and though we may not win the pennant, we'll be up near the top."—John McGraw.

The other 13 statements were just as unique, so you can see what I was up against.

Now, 1932 is still a couple of weeks off, and the 1932 baseball season is still further removed, but I have already decided on my winner. I am going to award first prize (14 head of blooded stock—seven Guernseys and a like number of Holsteins—all good milk gives) to Max Carey, recently appointed Manager of the Brooklyn Robins, or Daffiness Boys, as the club was known under Uncle Wilbert Robinson's regime.

Carey won the prize a couple of nights ago when, at a dinner given in honor of the Brooklyn baseball writers, he rose up during the fifth course and expressed his ideas on what it takes to make a winning ball club.

Carey cut loose with what he called his "ten points," and for sheer originality, baseball hasn't seen their like since the invention of the hook slide and the hit-and-run play.

Here are Carey's ten points (hold your breath, pals):

- No. 1—Cooperation between players and the manager.
- No. 2—Color. Winning teams have color.
- No. 3—Behavior. The behavior of players is an example to thousands of youngsters.
- No. 4—Competitive spirit.
- No. 5—Pitching.
- No. 6—Fielding.
- No. 7—Base running.
- No. 8—Fast baseball.
- No. 9—Fast baseball.
- No. 10—Sleep baseball.

Despite the novelty of Mister Carey's ideas, I'm inclined to believe he has hit on the right plan. However, I think it would be better if he could see fit to include just a little pitching.

POLICEMAN HAS BRIDGE SYSTEM HE'D LIKE TRIED

Suggests Culbertsons Try It In Contest This Evening

New York, Dec. 17.—(UP)—"Ely Culbertson and his new bridge partner should adopt my new information scratch bridge system when they play their next hands in that bridge 'duel' tonight," Patrolman Dan Sullivan of the Madison Avenue beat announced today.

Ely will be teamed with Theodore A. Lightner of Detroit, who is replacing Mrs. Culbertson so she may have a few spare evenings between now and Christmas with Bruce and Joyce, the two young Culbertsons.

"Eddie Fisk, who lives three doors from me out in Astoria, worked out this system with me and it is baffling," Sullivan explained. "Eddie and I got to talking about these bidding systems. We decided we might frame one ourselves, and write a book, maybe. And here's the system we finally decided on: 'Supposing I am strong in spades,

Eddie looks across the table and I scratch the right side of my face. Eddie catches on right away. Supposing I scratch with four fingers. That means I have four honors. This finger means the ace, this the king, this the queen and so on.

"As many times as I scratch, I have that many spades all told. If I got hearts, I scratch the right side of the neck under the ear. By the time the bidding is all over, Eddie and me are pretty wise to what the other fellow's got.

"If Sidney Lenz can signal Oswald Jacoby by just saying he bids two clubs, why shouldn't me and Eddie scratch?" Dan asked conclusively.

Mrs. Culbertson withdrew from the match with the Culbertsons, leading by 410 points. She must play in at least 75 rubbers by agreement.

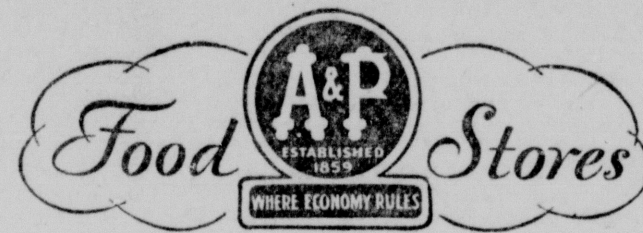

The new Culbertson partner, Lightner, is formerly of Detroit, and is a member of the Detroit Athletic Club and is a graduate of Yale and Harvard Law School.

Help Prevent Holiday Fires Marshall's Plea

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—(UP)—State Fire Marshal S. L. Legried appealed to merchants and the general public to cooperate in helping to prevent unnecessary fires during the holiday season.

Rules, which will help avoid fires, were laid down by him as follows: Flimsy inflammable decorations should be avoided both in the store and at home and in any event should be kept well away from all electric light globes or any source of heat or fire.

Merchants should see that packing material is immediately removed and disposed of when new goods are received.

They should make sure that temporary wiring for window displays or other effects is done safely by a competent electrician.

No smoking should be allowed in stores by patrons or employees.

"The practice of placing a lighted candle on Christmas trees went out of fashion quite some time ago, but each year we hear of fires in the homes of some people who still use the lighted candle," said Legried.

"Electric illumination is the safest and most satisfactory, but the sets should be examined to see that there are no short circuits or other breaks, and if new sets are purchased, the purchaser should be sure that he is buying a good standard set.

"Christmas trees dry out rapidly and become serious fire hazards. For that reason they should not be decorated with inflammable material, and matches and flame should be kept away from them.

"The practice of placing a lighted candle in the window is a beautiful custom, but in case of draft curtains are likely to ignite from the flames. For that reason an electric candle should be used.

"Those in charge of church cantatas and programs are urged to forego the use of lighted candles, as they are dangerous in connection with stage decorations and the very flimsy costumes worn by the young girl participants.

"The use of lighted candles on Christmas trees at public entertainments is absolutely forbidden."

DEATHLESS LOVE!

Costly Monument Reunites Lillian Leitzel, Greatest Star the Circus Ever Knew, and Her Bereaved Acrobat Husband

Here is the stately memorial, "Reunion," in which Alfred Cadona portrays he and his wife, Lillian Leitzel, clasped in each other's arms in deathless embrace. At the left, Cadona is shown placing her ashes in the tomb. The fade-out shows Leitzel as millions of circus-goers throughout the world remember her.

By DAN THOMAS
(NEA Service Writer)

Los Angeles — Lillian Leitzel has played to her last audience.

The music of a circus band seemed to float softly from the distance and the faint odor of fresh tannin seemed to fill the air when a silent crowd gathered at a new monument of Italian marble in Inglewood cemetery the other day.

But the only music was that of the wind sighing through the low palm trees and the odor was the sweet, heavy scent of fresh-cut flowers.

Lillian Leitzel, highest paid and most famous circus acrobat in history, was making her farewell appearance. Alfred Cadona, of Los Angeles, her acrobat husband, placed within the monument a small silver urn containing her ashes.

Splendid response is being made to the appeals for food and clothing for the needy of Rochelle and vicinity. Committee Chairmen of the Community Social and Community Welfare, Mesdames W. E. Kitter and Mary Valle, are daily receiving Cadona had kept these ashes since last February when his wife met sudden death in a fall in Copenhagen, Denmark. She pitched to the ground like a plummet when the rope holding a ring snapped as she was twirling over and over, a flashing creature in filmy white high up in the circus tent. The broken trapeze is carved on the monument; it tells the story of her death.

The funeral ceremony here recalled what circus people have long called "the perfect romance." Leitzel and Cadona were both children of the circus—acrobats since early childhood. They grew up within the shadow of the "big top." She was the greatest woman aerialist in history; he was famous for his triple somersault in mid-air. They

Tame Wild Ducks May Result From 'Factory' System

Washington—The "machine age" and "standardization" received another dig recently at the American Game Conference in New York, to judge from a report of the American Game Association.

Arthur L. Clarke, of the National Sportsman magazine, declared that although the large scale "factory production" of birds on game farms has proved to be a mainstay of the sport of hunting in many states, it is falling into practices which now threaten to flood the land with "tame wild birds." Instead of "wild game birds," he was speaking of ringnecked pheasants, those hardy and gorgeous birds which sportsmen are welcoming in larger areas of the country each year.

"The law of artificial selection on game farms is apparently working in exactly the opposite direction from the law of natural selection as seen in the wild," Mr. Clark warned. "Because of the demand for higher production game breeders consciously or unconsciously are developing birds in captivity for their capacity to produce more eggs and for the ease with which they can be reared. This practice tends to create a domesticated bird having little attraction for real sportsmen."

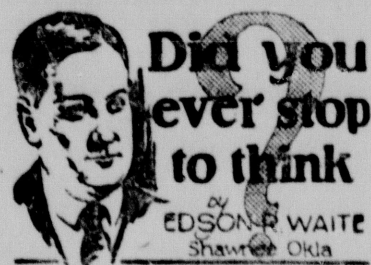

He urged that game farms use for breeders only those birds which display wild qualities, in order to develop for liberation a race of very quick, alert birds.

Mr. Clarke also suggested that these birds can be raised at small expense in "backyard farms" from wild eggs.

Game officials hold that the artificial rearing of young birds is an effective way to increase the amount of game in nature, since it protects them from the many hazards which threaten the young in fields and woods. Even this is ineffective, they say, unless the birds, when released to shift for themselves, can find sufficient natural food and cover.

Osteopaths' Plea Denied By Courts

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Osteopathic physicians today lost another round in their fight for state recognition and the right to separate state licensing board, when the Appellate Court here affirmed judgment of the Sangamon county Circuit Court refusing A. J. Poague of Chicago a writ of mandamus.

Poague had sought to compel the Director of Registration and Education to name a board of osteopathic examiners, on the ground that the Medical Examining Board did not give a fair examination to osteopathic students. The case went to the Supreme Court where it was refused on the ground no constitutional question was involved, and the Appellate Court today denied the writ on the ground that Director of Registration and Education had no power to appoint an osteopathic examining board, until such authority were granted by the legislature.

Railroad Officer And Negro Killed

East St. Louis, Ill., Dec. 16--(UP)--Special Agent Charles Bryant of the Wabash Railroad and an unidentified negro were shot and killed today in a pistol battle that followed Bryant's attempt to dislodge the Negro and two companions from a freight car.

The shooting occurred in the Wabash yards at Brooklyn, Ill., three miles north of here in Madison county, just before noon.

H. B. Smith, yardmaster, said Bryant apparently had ordered the three Negroes off an outgoing freight, that they leaped from the car and opened fire on him. Bryant died enroute to a hospital. The Negro's body was found beside the tracks. His two companions fled, and deputies immediately instituted a search for them.

THREE KINDS of LOVE BY KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

© 1931, by Doubleday, Doran and Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANNE, CECILY AND MARY-FRANCES FEWENICK live with their grandparents, once wealthy now so impoverished that Anne and Cecily's earnings support the household. The sisters have been orphaned since childhood. The grandparents are known respectively as "ROSE A LIE" and "GRAND" and they insist on keeping up pretenses of their former wealth.

Anne, 28, and Cecily, 22, do secretarial work and Mary-Frances, 15, is still in school. When the story opens Anne has been engaged to PHILIP ECROYD, young lawyer, for eight years.

Cecily brings BARRY McKEEL home to dinner. It is evident that she is falling in love with him. Mary-Frances has a telephone call from her friend, ERMINTRUDE, who is excited about the arrival of an actor known as EARL DE ARMOUNT. The two girls make plans to meet him. Phil comes to see Anne. He is late and rather irritable.

SHERIFF HOPES TO STOP TALES OF MOLLY'S HAND

Story Of Execution Of "Innocent" Man 67 Years Ago Told

Mauch Chunk, Pa., Dec. 17. (AP)—Sixty-seven years ago a miner was led from his cell in the jail here to the gallows.

A jury had decreed that he was a member of the Molly Maguires, a secret band of terrorists who ruled the lower anthracite fields in those days, and a judge had sentenced him to hang.

To the very last the condemned man insisted he was innocent. As they marched him to the gallows he wrenched his right arm free, slapped his hand on the dust-covered floor and planted it high on the wall.

"That mark is the handprint of an innocent man," he shouted, "it never can be washed away."

Nor could it. Regularly it was whitewashed over and as regularly the mark reappeared—a man's fingers, thumb and palm. As years passed it became a legend. Hundreds of visitors viewed it and no jail official would touch it.

But Sheriff Robert L. Bowman has no time for folk tales. To him it was just a soiled spot on the wall and he decided it had remained long enough. So he took a knife, cut out the plaster, and ordered new put in its place.

"We will have no more of the Molly's hand," he said.

But there are many who think he may.

Mrs. Donald C. Gilmore entertained five tables of bridge at her home last Friday evening. Bridge was preceded by a six-thirty supper served in four courses. Prizes of the evening were won by Mrs. H. M. Bremer of Steward, and Mrs. L. D. Miller, Mrs. A. J. Bernardin, consolation. Lloyd McDougall was awarded first in the mens division, Grover G. Carnahan, second, and L. D. Miller, consolation.

Frank Bohart, Jr., of Ashton, was united in marriage to Miss Velda Burley of Compton at the Presbyterian Church, at Ashton by Rev. A. E. Thomas, at 7:30 Saturday evening, December 12. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Burley of Compton, and the groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bohart, Sr., of Ashton. The happy young couple completely surprised their many friends here as well as at Ashton, as they were unattended at the altar. The bride has been engaged in teaching at the Zinke School, south of West Brooklyn, for the past four years, while the bridegroom is a popular young man who has just recently sold his business enterprise at Ashton to enter some other occupation in the future. Hotel Operators Upheld By Court

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Hotel operators E. O. and E. S. Perry of Springfield were upheld by the Appellate Court here today for failure to keep their contract to lease a hotel in Jacksonville. The case was reversed and remanded to Sangamon county Circuit Court with directions to dismiss the suit for want of equity.

Failure to go through with their contract was given by the Perrys as due to the fact that the new hotel building contemplated and the building actually erected were so widely different that the "leasee" would get a hotel of fewer rooms, inferior construction, which would result in greater expense of maintenance and excessive insurance.

They alleged a "general lack of compliance with plans on which the rental was to be based," but indicate readiness to compromise differences. "If the Jacksonville Hotel company desires to negotiate a lease to Dunlap Hotel Company," the opinion quotes the Perrys, "the Messrs. Perry are willing to negotiate such a lease and agree to pay a fair rental therefore taking into consideration the difference between what the contract provided and the building erected."

Their contract called for a rental on a hotel valued at $400,000, which they say they cannot go through with.
